THE SCARLET SCREEN.
WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY F. E. DUMM.

Lisette was young, and Lisette was fair,
Lisette was an old familiar air
Of mirth and music and golden hair.
She lived in an alley where never a ray
Of sunlight shone the live long day,
In a house that was failing to decay.
And there were Meg, Camille and Modest,
And pretty Petite, whom she loved best,
For she was somewhat unlike the rest.
There was something sad in her blue eyes—
The wreck of an earthly paradise—
A childhood spent under cloudless skies.

And many a time Petite and Lisette,
In a close embrace, would sob with regret
For the days that they then tried to forget.
But at night, when lights through the scarlet screen
Flushed the street below, then a lively scene
Was viewed in the shadows which passed between,
And the shadows which flitted to and fro
Back of the screen—and the sound, sweet and low,
Of melodies forgotten long ago.

Lisette in scarlet and Petite in white,
As pale as the moon of a clear, crisp night,
And sparkling with jewels—not half so bright.
How winsome each face. How happy—and yet
The melody dies—then the old regret—
Alas for Petite and—alas for Lisette!

* * * * *

You are ill, my Petite; dying, they say;
I have watched by your side night and day,
Fearing the end when I was away.

“Don’t cough so, my sweet. Live only for me?
You are all I have—Look up! Can’t you see?
What a wretch I am—What a wretch I would be
If you left me, Petite!” Leave you, Lisette!
No! That wouldn’t be you. The day we met
We swore to remember—not to forget.

They are laughing down stairs. Oh, heartless
Camille,
And Meg and Modest. In woe and in weal
Their hearts are the same—envied in steel.
“But the music has ceased—the lights burn low,
And the street door screen with the scarlet glow
I have changed for one as pure as the snow.
“I did it because—when the angel came
And called my Petite by her own sweet name
The men would think it a house of shame.
“Lift you up? Cling closer. Oh, sweet regret!
The room grows brighter? Yes. “Kiss you!”
once, yet!”
And Death has Petite and the world Lisette.

IN THE MINSTRELS’ DRESSING ROOM.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY CHARLES H. DAY.

The boys of Baird’s Minstrels were putting on the cork preparatory to the first part, and chatting as they “blacked up.” John Mack was taking a clean shave at his own hands before the mirror, prior to applying a coat of darkness to his complexion, remarking, as he scraped off the lather and the beard:

“If there’s anything that I stand in dread of it is a barber’s chin. And I am never safe from it in the chair, so I prefer to scrape my own phiz to escape his chitter.”

Lew Benedict, adjusting his wig, was led to remark:

“Boring barbers are bad. You recollect Billy West, who traveled with Duprez so many years, when I was with the show? Well, Billy was as afraid of a barber as he was of a dentist. But one night down in Maine, wanting a clean shave in a hurry, he put himself in the hands of a latherer, blabber and scraper, who proceeded to skin him and chin him with dull remarks and a duller razor. Billy got restive and interceded in his own behalf.

“Once over will do.”

“The tonsorial torturer, preparatory to dousing West’s head with a dose of smell and grease, rubbed his locks with his fingers daintly, as if he feared to soil them, and remarked:

“Your head is very dirty, sir.”

“William did not take the hint for a shampoo, but coolly replied:

“You ought to see my feet!”

As there was still plenty of time before the call for the first part, Lew further “reminded” of the days when he was with Duprez. Said he:

“People sometimes get funny ideas about the minstrels blacking up, but the biggest crank I ever came across was in a new town in Kansas. The manager was much newer than the town. He had never had a minstrel company play in his house before, and while we were getting ready for the parade he came to me, and, calling me aside, inquired:

“Say! When you give a minstrel show do the stage hands black up, too?”

“They do,” said I to the Jay, “when the manager understands his business. It gives a harmonious effect to everything and is conducive to success.”

“I learned afterwards that he dropped into the office of the editor and found out the definition of the word conducive and used it in the next announcement for his hall. They called it the Grand Academy of Music though.”

“That night after we went on the stage we found all the scene shifters ‘blacked up,’ and I thought the boys would spoil the whole thing by laughing. At any rate, I think the immediate presence of the stage hands put us all in good humor, for everything went with a zest.

“You know that Duprez was always strong on red fire in an act, and he never failed to burn it himself; next to that he liked best to pound a gong, so I with all the boys was waiting for the coming of the old man.” At last he arrived to superintend in person the fire and noise departments. At first he did not drop on the disguised scene shifters, but when he came to comprehend the cause of the masquerade even the cold dignified Charles H. Duprez had to laugh heartily. The next morning the local manager bid us adieu at the depot, and as he shook hands he said:

“Come again, gentlemen, I will make every-about them he is liable to repeat a story that has been in print. At any rate, I never read this one that I am going to spring on you. Years ago, in Philadelphia, lived a hotel keeper famous in his day as the staunch friend of the minstrel and the circus people. His name was Sam Miller, and he will never be forgotten. Shortly after his death Brown went over to New York, and there met Horn. The first queries that Eph propounded were:

“Was you at Sam Miller’s funeral? Was it a large one?”

“Frank answered:

“Great success, turned people away!”

It was now getting along to the hour for ringing up, and the comedians adjusted their big collars, have always preferred it to working in a drink shop and taking my salary out in bar checks.”

When the first part was over Charley Goodyear returned and reminiscently remarked:

“When I was living in Springfield, Massachusetts, I overheard a conversation that amused me, and sometimes I take it on the end. One party was carrying a quantity of fireworks under his arm, and the other, evidently a neighbor, and bound in the same direction, asked:

“This aint Fourth of July. What are you going to do with them?”

“Why, celebrate. My wife’s mother has gone away to stay for six months.”

The manager’s favorite grayhound, Rube, that

Charley Goodyear chimed: “Come, a new one just got in from Springfield.”

John Mack chipped: “I’ve recalled a Danbury one. Season I was with George F. Bailey.”

“Bang! Boom! Boom!”

The band is off, and we are following it down the street. Can’t help it. It comes so natural, and as the Kansas manager and Benedict had it: “Conducive.”

CONFIDENTIAL.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

No upper ten maiden for me, if you please: From the glimpse I have had of this kind On opera nights or at charity shows, I am sure they are not to my mind. They look to be perfectly useless to me—Only fit to be set under glass; My girl is a different kind of a girl—She belongs to the middle class.

She is not so idle, but prettier far, And can market and cook—more than that, Sooth a baby brother, most sinfully cross, Like a charm, just with mulling love pat. Her shoulders she thinks are for helping at home Not for dazzling the eyes of the mass; So she’s kept from shares of the high or the low By her folks—of the middle class.

I am not deserving such luck, but, dear girl, She has whispered her promise to me; Her parents accept me with pretty good grace. And at Easter the wedding will be. The house will, of course be left lonesome to them When from it to my arms she will pass, But I’ll be the happiest man on this earth—Without any regard to class. D. B. BARNARD.

INTREPID ZAZEL.

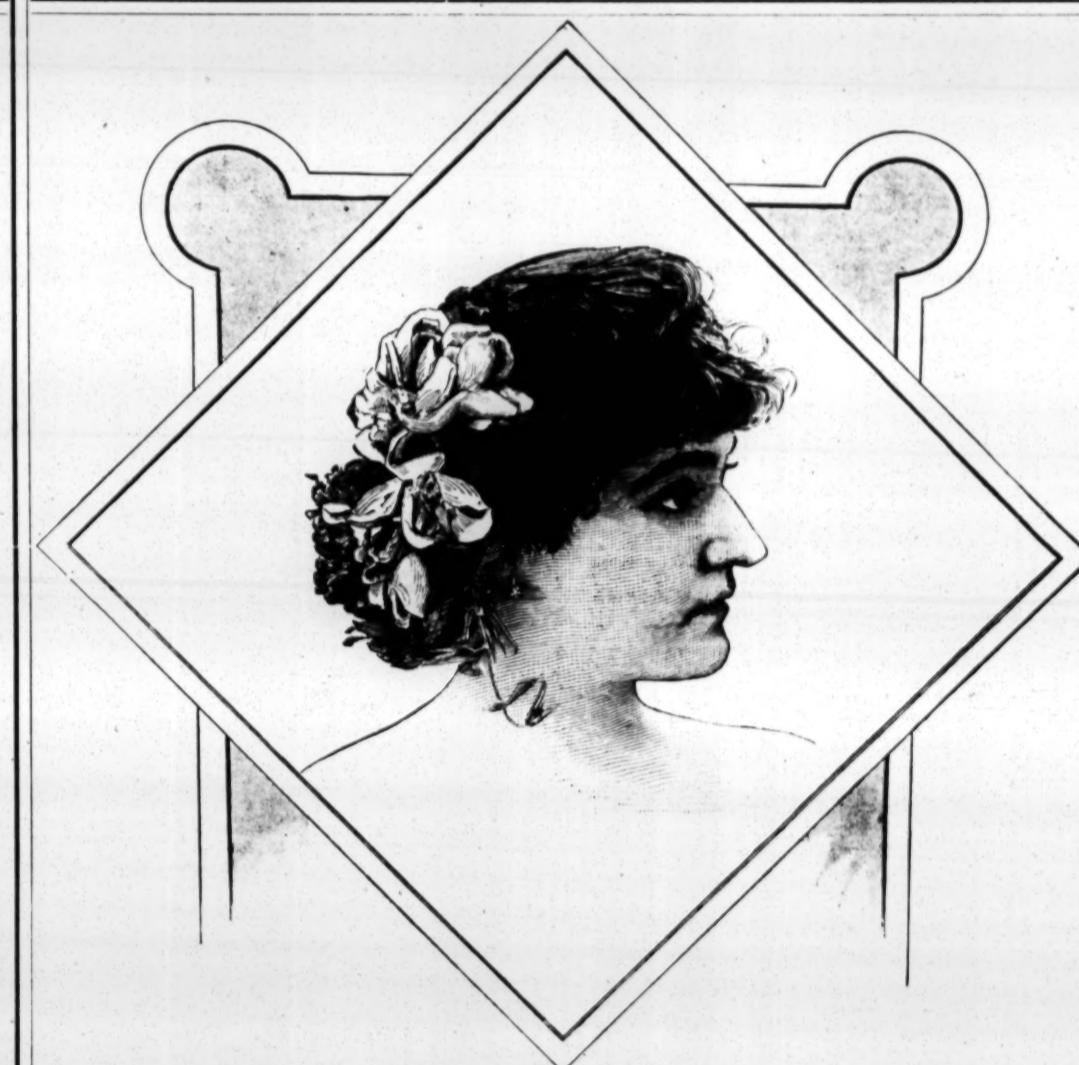

Rosa M. Richter was born in London, Eng., April 14, 1862. Her father was a well known circus and dramatic agent. The sudden illness of a child who was to have played the part of one of Cinderella’s sisters in the juvenile pantomime at the Drury Lane was the means of introducing Zazel to the public. Though only four years of age, she filled the role so well that she became favorite. Cammick, the ballet master, took an interest in the little one, and before many months was proud of his child dancer. Having a natural desire to learn gymnastics, she began a thorough course of training. At twelve years of age she was one of a Japanese troupe that traveled over the country, and with them she learned the wonderful balance which has made her so successful. She was known as the only Japanese girl that ever visited Europe, and received many medals as rewards for her daring and skill. In 1877 she began to practice the dive and cannon act. For two years, twice each day, she filled the Westminster Aquarium. At that time she increased the distance from which she would dive, until she finally made a plunge of ninety-seven feet through the air. She was thrown from the cannon a distance of sixty feet. In 1880 she was brought to this country by the managers of P. T. Barnum’s Show. She remained with them that season, and returned again to Europe. In the meantime many others had assumed her name and title. On her return to this country, in 1882, she was engaged to travel with the Inter Ocean Show. Shortly after she married George O. Starr, and for a time retired from the profession. In 1885 her husband organized the Starr Opera Co. It was while with this organization that she amused herself by playing various parts in comic opera. She was a success as Regina in “The Princess of Trebizonde,” made the part of Eliza in “Belle Taylor” very strong, and showed that she had not only an excellent voice, but the grace and action which only long experience and study can give the artist. She accompanied her husband to Europe, and when he accepted the position he now holds with Barnum & Bailey, Zazel determined to again resume her circus life.

Her latest sensation was in leaping from a fourth story window into the net used by the Fire Department. She made the jump in her ordinary street costume, wearing her jewelry and hat. For years she had advocated the use of the net as a life saver.

When “The Evening Sun” of this city agitated the subject it found in Zazel a great assistant. The question is now being talked of throughout the country. Zazel has prepared a number of valuable suggestions, which will be published for the benefit of those living in lofty buildings. The only reward she asks is that her efforts may be of some use to her fellow creatures. Personally Zazel is bright, intelligent and noted for her acts of charity. She received the thanks of the New York Fire Department for her bravery and advice, and the press unite in editorially praising her actions.

A DIET OF DOVES.

Actresses are not always the sensitive, soulful creatures in reality which they appear when representing some romantic heroine. In certain towns of Italy doves tied with ribbons are thrown at the feet of genius and beauty. But the poetry of the idea is rudely reduced to prose by the fact that the lady in question lives chiefly upon the delicate birds. In Japan a less picturesque but even quainter custom prevails. At the end of a scene of more than ordinary effectiveness the audience will throw coats, swords, asanas and other articles upon the stage. After the curtain has fallen for the last time, these tributes to histronic talent are redeemed at a fixed tariff of values, and the cash proceeds divided among the actors. This is even more practical and more profitable than a diet of doves.

ZAZEL, THE AERIALIST.

thing as conducive as possible, even if I have to black up myself.”

Charley Goodyear told a story which was very Springfield, Massachusetts, and not particularly Corkonian. Then Benedict again related:

“Frank Moran is doing first rate with his minstrel show, as you will be glad to hear. Did I ever tell you about Billy Manning’s suit of clothes? Not Billy was in Chicago, and had an engagement to open here in San Francisco. His togs were a little the worse for wear, so Mollie Williams, his wife, put some jewelry in pawn and bought Bill an eighteen dollar suit. They were not broadcloth, and very hand-me-down at the best. Just eighteen months after the purchase of the garments Manning met Frank Moran, who, sizing up his fellow minstrel, observed:

“Bill, you aint very hard on clothes.”

“Billy Manning was never at loss for a retort, and he returned, as he looked on Moran’s light summer rig:

“Yea, Frank, and if you sneezed you would be naked.”

One of the vocalists wanting to borrow a rosette caused a momentary interruption, and then the lively Lewis continued:

“Well, I suppose I am getting to be one of the old timers now myself. I met an Eastern acquaintance down at Los Angeles the other day, and he remarked:

“What makes you look so old, Lew?”

“I told him:

“Washing my face so much in hard water.”

“He believed it. Still I am a Spring chicken beside Charley White, Billy Birch and McAndrews. What gay old customers Frank Brown and Eph Horn were! Stories innumerable have been published about them, and when one recites a yarn diamond pins and watch chains, still Lewis’ tongue was loose and he wagged:

“Frank Brower was very much attached to Philadelphia, while Eph Horn awoke by New York. Each liked to guy the other about it, and one Sunday when Brower came over to Gotham he found Broadway deserted then, as now, at the great thoroughfare is quiet of a Sabbath day:

“This is Broadway, eh?” sneered Frank, “looks like a graveyard; why at this minute there’s a thousand people in front of the Continental Hotel on Chestnut Street.”

“Yes,” retorted Eph, quick as a flash, “waiting for The New York Sun to see what the news is.”

Brower used to keep a saloon in Philly, where professionals were wont to congregate. In the show window was a plaster image, minus an arm. Frank accounted for it. “It was broken off in Becknell, observed:

“All ready for the first part.”

The call caused almost an entire evacuation of the dressing rooms, and none remained to chat but the second edition of first comedians. After a time John Mack came down from the stage, having exploited himself as per house bill, and fell to telling of the days when he “blacked up” with the circus in the concert.

“Many a time have they dropped the side wall of the dressing room on me while I was in black, and I was obliged to go to the hotel to wash up. How often have I drove a cage through to oblige the manager! Well, ask George F. Bailey, and he can tell you! Then I would be mounted on a horse in the parade, that wouldn’t fit me. If a boss hostler with a circus has any ambition on earth it is to kill a ‘concert nigger singer,’ and if the brute is a runaway or kicker, the minstrel is lucky if he lives through the season. Still, with all the hardships, I has traveled for five years with the show, growled as his hitherto peaceful slumbers had been disturbed by a mother-in-law joke.

The dog’s dissent started Benedict, and he related:

“Funny about that dog. You ought to see how he keeps an eye on conductors, baggage men and brakemen. He seems to know one by instinct, and is never safe or sure until he is smuggled away at our feet. Occasionally a kick is made, but never but in one instance has the pet been banished to the baggage car. One time out on the frontier a dude made a break to the conductor:

“I thought pups went in the luggage van?”

“Go in,” said the conductor, “if you want to.”

The dog remained and the boys shouted. That conductor got a D. H.”

So with interruptions and exits and entrances, the merriment goes on, both off and on the stage. Dan Bryant used to claim that it was worth a hundred a week to have Eph Horn in the dressing room to enliven him and inspire with jollity and humor.

Song and story sped the hours until the last act was finished and the merry minstrel uncorked and corked up. In the midst of the ablations the whole party was convulsed by the inquiry of a Teutonic horn blower:

“Who wash dot Alcazar, anyvays? I never heared oph him in der teater pissness before!”

The next day at the parade assembly the minstrel was introduced to Mark Thall, and the deceived Dutchman exclaimed:

“It gives me great pleasure to know you, Mr. Alcazar.”

Just then the leader sounded his call, and, as the band started off, Lew Benedict called:

“Come round to the dressing room to-night. I’ve got one for you.”

'FRISCO WIRINGS.'

Very Satisfactory Openings Reported at All the Theatres.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 8.—F. B. Warde appeared last night at the California in "Gaston Co. do!." The attendance was large, and piece and star made a pleasant impression. Mrs. Langtry comes 14 for a brief engagement.

BUSH STREET THEATRE.—Reilly & Wood's Co. opened in fine shape last evening. Their two weeks' stay has been most satisfactory. Evans & Co's open 14 for three weeks.

ALCAZAR.—"East Lynne" began auspiciously last evening. Julius Caesar, with the following cast, will be done 14: Brutus, J. H. Grismer; Portia, Phoebe Davies; Antony, E. J. Buckley; Cassius, Lewis Morrison; Julius Caesar, George Osborne; Casca, Charles J. Edmunds.

NOTELETS.—Lewis Johnson's "Black Baby Boys" Minstrels opened last night to good attendance at the Wigwam.....Kitty Howard and Mary Elliott are new at the Bella Union.....Sam Lang, Dolly Sharp and Lillie Morris are on the announcement list for 14 at the Wigwam.....L. R. Stockwell starts for the East 10 in search of attractions....."Fantine" was done at the Tivoli last night, with fine results....."Boecaccio" caught a large house at the Orpheum.....Cain & Haywood's Specialty Co. are on their second week at the Lyceum. The Samettes opened last night with this troupe.....Stanley and Everett, and the Buffalo Trio are at the Vienna Garden.....Stanley Sisters, Flora Hastings, Cardella and Vidella, and others are on the list at the Bella Union.....The Schweiherling Marionettes are to be at Woodward's Garden.

POINTS FROM THE HUB.

"Mazelm" Proves Its Drawing Powers—Other Openings Have Big Crowds.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

BOSTON, Mass., May 8.—An immense gathering filled the Globe to overflowing last night, when "Mazelm" was produced for the first time in Boston. It is an altogether entertaining, instructive spectacle, and quite surpasses previous Kiraly productions. Frank Melrose, the one-legged gymnast, with Tom Dare, gave a capital exhibition on the horizontal bar as the Dare Brothers. Vlad Sisters, in their hair raising aerial trapeze act, including the dive from the dome to the net by one of the sisters, were simply stupendously successful. Bostonians never gazed on such daring and graceful trapeze work before. They say the great dive is old. It may be, but it's a heart stopping act. Arnold Kiraly's unique dancing outshines even his previous best endeavors. He was actually infinite, and our other eccentric dancers may easily take lessons from him. "Mazelm's" ballet is clever, and not a bit antique. The scenery and properties were new, rich and fairly startling. Manager Julius Kahn says they stay four weeks or longer, if the Hubites will stand the grind. It looks as if they would....."The Henrietta" at the Hollis is closing far above par in the theatrical market. Robson and Crane have been building the Boston business, and the final week will be a masterpiece on the part of the Hollis's.....A very gratifying audience greeted Richard Mansfield upon his return to his alma mater of the drama, the Museum. He presented his interesting portrait of human opposites. "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," and won the approval of his audience.....At the Grand, a crowded house welcomed Atkinson's "Peck's Bad Boy" Co. It was the customary opening night audience at this popular resort.....Dennison Thompson's "Old Homestead" is a hit. "The Tramp" and "The Girl" at the Boston Theatre....."Partners" attracted a profitable audience at the Park. ...."My Aunt Bridget" had nearly filled the Howard, and the museums had nearly filled to attend to.

ST. LOUIS NOTES.

Two Opera Troupes, Minstrels and "Rip Van Winkle" Draw Big Houses.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 8.—Adelaide Randall's Opera Co. drew a fair attendance to the Standard, and "The Princess of Trebizonde" was presented in a clever manner.....Robert McWade had two big audiences Sunday to see "Rip Van Winkle"....."A Trip to Africa" drew a full house at the Olympic, and Mrs. Joseph Glaser made a hit at the Olympic. The opera was well costumed and well sung.....Dock Stader's Minstrels commence a week's engagement at the Olympic 13.

FROM OTHER CITIES.

"The Boy Tramp" Has Two Well Known Boxes in Opposition, but Does Well.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 8.—Harris' Museum opened with Mine, Nevilie in "The Boy Tramp" to a large house yesterday afternoon, but the rain prevented a repetition at night.....The Buckingham Theatre opened last night with the London Specialty Co. to an overflowing house. Dominic K. McCaffery and Frank Heald received an ovation.....The Grand Central opened to a good house.

Notes from the Smokey City.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 8.—Harris' Opera Co. in "The Gypsy Baron" at the Grand had a fine house. Murray and Murphy turned people away from the Bijou. The occasion was the attacks' benefit. Harris' Theatre was packed to see "Uncle Tom's Cabin" by Harris' own company. "A Checked Life" filled Williams' Academy of Music.....The Casino was crowded three times yesterday.

Marinelli in the Far West.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

SEATTLE, W. T., May 8.—Marinelli and the Berville Family turned hundreds away from Cort's Standard last night.

Notes from the Capital.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 8.—At Albaugh's, McCann's Opera Co. were seen last night in "Indiana" by a very good house....."Lostin New York" appeared at the National before a large audience. Lizzie May Ulmer in "Dad's Girl" and Harris and Parson Davies' Specialty Co. at Kernan's had good business.....Barnum's Circus showed here 2, 3, and drew bigger patronage than ever before. Both nights people were turned away.

Buffalo's Big Business.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 8.—The Bostonians opened a big house at the Academy last night.....Business was good at the Court Street, where "Under the Gaslight" proved as strong as ever....."The Strangers of Paris" at Bunnell's was greeted by a large audience.....Florence Bindley's business at the Grand was light.

Billy Emerson's Ovation.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 8.—The Ninth Street with Kit Putnam's Co. had things all its own way last night, the Coates, Gillis, and Warner being dark. A great many were turned away. Billy Emerson appeared with the company for the first time in this city minus the burnt cork, and was greeted enthusiastically.

The "S. R. O." Sign Out.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

DETROIT, Mich., May 8.—Lillian Lewis filled White's last night.....Pat Rooney had "S. R. O." at the Whitney Grand.....The Detroit had a local attraction.....Hi Henry's Minstrels drew a big house to the Casino.....The Wonderland did a good business.

Chicago Breezy Pointers.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

CHICAGO, Ill., May 8.—Dockstader's Minstrels drew a bigger first night house than has been seen at the Chicago for some time. The company was pronounced one of the best that has appeared here.....Milton Nobles at the Columbia had only a fair house, while at the Academy "A Bunch of Keys" Co. open 14 for three weeks.

ALCAZAR.—"East Lynne" began auspiciously last evening. Julius Caesar, with the following cast, will be done 14: Brutus, J. H. Grismer; Portia, Phoebe Davies; Antony, E. J. Buckley; Cassius, Lewis Morrison; Julius Caesar, George Osborne; Casca, Charles J. Edmunds.

NOTELETS.—Lewis Johnson's "Black Baby Boys" Minstrels opened last night to good attendance at the Wigwam.....Kitty Howard and Mary Elliott are new at the Bella Union.....Sam Lang, Dolly Sharp and Lillie Morris are on the announcement list for 14 at the Wigwam.....L. Chicago.—At the Chicago Opera House, R. L. Downing's engagement, artistically speaking, can be called a success. The attendance was good throughout the week. Dockstader's Minstrels May 6.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—The Bostonians drew the biggest houses of the week. The engagement opened with "Mignon," and although, the weather was very bad the attendance was large. "Grand Elysseum"?

McCarren's THEATRE.—Dion Boucicant's "Cushla Macbeth" succeeded only passably well, and the engagement was not the success it should have been. Campanini's Italian Opera 7. Beginning 14, the stock, including E. J. Henley, George Drew Barrymore, Bijou, Heron, etc., open for the Summer.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—"From Sire to Son" promised well at the start, in point of attendance, but dropped off materially as the week progressed. It continues another week.

HOOLEY'S THEATRE.—J. K. Emmet always draws full houses. James O'Neill 6.

WINDSOR THEATRE.—Mattice Vickers captivated her auditors nightly. Paying houses were the rule all week. Foy Crowell 7.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—"The Night Owls" packed this resort at every performance. P. F. Baker 7.

McKee's THEATRE.—K. E. Henley's "McKee's" made a hit and played to "Standing Room Only." Dion Boucicant 6.

CRITERION THEATRE.—Sid C. France filled a paying engagement with "Dead to the World." Hettie Bernard-Chase 7.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Floy Crowell left a favorable impression with the westenders. It was her first appearance here. "A Bunch of Keys"?

KOHL & MIDDLETON'S MUSEUM.—Mrs. Gen. Tom Thumb, "Cinderella" and the troupe of little girls together with the Royal Marionettes and the National Fours Co. were great attractions. In the circus halls were Methuselah and Sol Stone. At the Westside house: Crossman's Comedies, René, Ronald, & René's Star's Co., a cat that bounces, children's shows, John G. Johnson, and the Chinese sacred horse, which amazed thousands.

ESTATE'S MUSEUM.—Lizzie Sturgeon and Jennie Quigley were the leading features in the halls. Warren Richard's Specialty Co. gave a neat oil in the theatre, as did C. W. C. and the Famous Funders Co. 7.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—Billy B. Co. played to paying houses. "Tricks on Mamma" was pleasing.

CASINO THEATRE.—Ady Henry's Folly Co. in "Coarse Hair" had empty chairs, barring athletic night, when the show was at its best.

OVERHEAD.—"The Crystal Slipper" Co. to begin at Chicago June 10, consists of Della Mule (Cinderella), Elma Delaro, Jessie Villars, May Yohé, Grace Flikins, Maude Waldemere, Ruth Stetson, Signora Astigiano, Mie. D'Amato, and the rest. John G. Allen, Edwin Foy, Tom Martin, Thomas K. Ernest Tarlton, M. Oneote, and the Rinaldos.

BLOOMINGTON.—At the Durley Theatre, Lavan and Schroeder, assisted by local talent, gave a performance April 27 to good business. P. F. Baker had only a fair success. Adelene, conducted by Mr. May 2, delighted small audiences. J. R. Murphy drew a fair audience 3. Coming: R. L. Downing. At the Grand Opera House, the Stevens Dramatic Co. commenced a week April 30 to big houses. Lavan and Schroeder had a week at the London Theatre. The show, in advance of R. L. Downing, spent May 1 with his parents in this city. Charles Moore was in the city this week. Wheeler and Madeline Allen and Delaine A. E. Postel, Grace Emmet, Ladd Milligan and Minnie Dunn remain on. There is a possible chance of starting a large Elks hall here. John G. Allen, John G. Johnson, and the amusement editor of The Saturday Review, has taken it in hand, and will leave for Chicago 4, to learn all particulars pertaining to organizing a lodge of Elks. It is thought it will prove a success.

SPRINGFIELD.—At Chatterton's Opera House, "Zooz" was to open April 29, but was canceled. Pack & Furman's Co. Co. appeared 28 to a fair house. "Zooz" was well received 30. The W. W. Dramatic Club gave "Turn of the Tide" at Turner Hall 25. Every seat was taken. . . . . Dickey exhibited his "Mandy" 26, and repeat a harvest. . . . . Morris Kline of a "Red Roy" Co. is home. . . . . R. L. Downing comes May 9. Frank Daniels 1.

DECATUR.—At the Opera House April 30, the Adelene Randall Opera Co. sang to a small audience. Helen Blythe the M. S. was poorly patronized. Mrs. Dingley and Pantomime Co. conducted a week 3-4. "A Night Off" Rines 15. . . . . R. F. Hamilton, in advance and the second advertising car of the Barnum-Bailey Show, was in the city.

HILLSBRO.—The new Opera House opened April 30 under the management of Duncan C. Best, with the Gage, Thomas, and Lloyd Co. The building is new and of original design. It is a large and gay seat. The auditorium has 410 opera chairs. The gallery seats 200 people. Hillsboro is a city of 2,500 persons.

ROCKFORD.—Grenier's "Bad Boy" canceled—Tom Lewis, of Wilson & Rankin's Minstrels, is in town. . . . . Coming: May 11, McIntyre & Heath's Minstrels; 15, "Bunch of Keys"; 17, G. A. Gardner in "Karl;" 25, Edwin Stuart, one week at popular prices.

KANKAKEE.—J. S. Murphy's "Kerry Gow" Co. at the Arcada Opera House drew well May 4. F. D. Drew, and Claude, Minstrels, "A Study of Lyons," supported by local amateur talent, comes 8.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

MAY 12

The building on West Twenty-eighth street known various times as the Horticultural Music Hall, the Regent, etc., was opened as a Turkish bath last week. James Everard is its owner, and he has spent $150,000 in fitting it up. James W. Collier is the manager. He will retain his interest in theatricals, however, as he assures THE CLIPPER, and will have a company on the road next season.

For some time the Kirby Brothers have been at variance. The trouble grew out of "The Black Crook" spectacle. Last week Irma Kiraly obtained an injunction from Judge Van Rensselaer restraining Bolosy and Elsie Kiraly and Eugene Tompkins from selling or parting with any of the property or effects of the firm of Kiraly Brothers, or in doing anything in connection with such firm except to prove its property. The injunction also forbids the contestants to get or attempt to get from George M. Cohan, or from any other person entitled to give the same any title or interest in the spectacle of "The Black Crook." The injunction was the commencement of a suit for a dissolution of partnership between Irene and Bolosy.

A TESTIMONIAL concert was tendered to David Bimberg, violin virtuoso, at Chipping Hall May 6. An excellent programme was rendered, and a large audience was in attendance.

ALMA AIKEN (daughter of Frank E. Aiken), Ida Ward, George C. Middleton and Arthur Cook will join Edward Harrigan's company next season, which will open with Mr. Harrigan's new local drama, "The Metropolis." Frank E. Aiken and Marcus Monfort of the company are re-engaged.

THIS is the week of "Ermine" at the Casino. Next week "Natty" for the first time in America, with the reappearance of Sadie Martinot.

HOYT & THOMAS' "Hole in the Ground" Co. opened for a week the closing one of their season at the Grand May 7. "Dolores" is due 21-26. Mrs. J. B. Potter will play here and not at the People's, as originally contemplated during June.

LUDWIG BARNAY will take his farewell of the Thalia patrons May 8, in "Urbil Acosta." Emil Hahn benefited 7, in "Der Prophete."

LONDON THIRD AVENUE THEATRE.—Theodore Hamilton, a new aspirant for "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" hours opened at this house afternoon of May 7. Mr. Hamilton's impersonation was cleverly done and elicited favorable comment from the fair sized audience present at the matinee. The audience in the evening was large. The piece was cast as follows: J. G. Patterson, John Sutherland; Sir Danvers Carew, Chas. Newell; Dr. Lanyon, William Burton; Mr. Guest, C. St. Asaph; Pool, J. H. Ryan; Inspector Newcomb, Jas. Jackson; Bradshaw, Clark and Williams; Keating and Ardell, Carter and Anderson. Electric Third Capitol Forrest James F. Hoey, Imro Fox and Leonzo, Dick Morosco, J. R. Gildersleeve, Dave Posner, Neilsen Sandford and Louise Crollis appeared to advantage in "The Family Drug Store."

LONDON THEATRE.—This house held large audiences afternoon and evening of May 7, when Fitzgerald's "Early Birds" commenced a week of bright and attractive chargings. "A Picnic at Vassar" showed the company in a first part of unusual excellence. Helen Mori, a lady possessed of a fine and well cultivated baritone voice, made a pronounced hit in her song, "They All Love Jay." The finale gave fine opportunities to Franks and Marion and George H. Wood. Flynn and Zetella opened the specialty acts in flying style. Mandie Chatwood interested by her clever songs and dances. George H. Wood "got there" in fine shape, with his monologue treatment. The King Sisters jugged and manipulated the clubs attractively. John "Jolly" Nash vocalized and pleased his hearers in a taking list of songs. Franks and Marion easily sang and danced themselves into popular favor. Helene Mori was most heartily endorsed in her changes, and her phenomenal voice was effectively heard again. Tatalli is billed as "the wonder," and he fully verifies that cognomen. His appearance at a Bowery house was made on Monday afternoon, and his success was immense. He does a contortion act of the highest class while sustaining himself by the hands on the flying rings. No feat seems too difficult for this agile and graceful performer, who is a pretentious addition to the novelty acts of our vaudevilles. "She" introduced the full strength of the troupe and showed Mile. Zetella to special advantage. This lady has risen high in the ranks of burlesquers, and does her work cleanly and gracefully. She is well supported by the burlesque contingency of the troupe. Peter Rice's Syndicate will hold forth next week with the following: Jack Dempsey, Hawkins and Collins, McAvoy and Rogers, Bertie John Walsh, Frank and Fanny Davis, Marie McNeil and others. Manager Rice will benefit 17, when, in addition to the above company, many volunteers will appear.

WINDSOR THEATRE.—Charles Ervin Verner introduced his version of "Siegmar O'Brien" to this city at the above house May 7. The large audience was ready to applaud and the star and piece may be said to have met with success. It was rumored that the play was John Brougham's version of years ago, but this was denied by the management. Mr. Verner's version was originally acted at Dayton, O. 26 last. It is the work of Fred G. Maeder, and Mr. Verner, we believe. The cast: Mr. O'Donoghue, Katharine Walsh; Kate O'Reilly, Louise; Widow O'Brien, Mrs. Frank G. Maeder; Mrs. O'Brien, Chas. E. Verner; Mr. Reed; Ingrid Dore, Horace D. Verner; Leslie McMerron; E. J. Radcliffe; Father Malone, J. W. Winston; Murray; Larry Mahoney; William Murphy; Phil Mahoney; Mike Madden; Colonel, afterwards Judge Clevenger; Richard Ross; Shadwick O'Finn, W. B. Cahill. During the performance Mr. Verner introduced several songs, and Mr. Madden danced to bagpipe playing of Mr. Murphy's. In the third act a gold headed ebony stick was passed up to Mr. Madden, as a present from his New York friends. Due 14: Kate Purcell in "The Queen of the Mines." Manager Murtha does not entertain closing very soon, and hopes to be able to open all Summer. On 27 he will give his first extension of the season to West Point and Newburgh. Three others are booked for June—two to Newburgh and West Point, and one to Bridgeport, Ct. The dates are June 3, 10 and 17.

POOLE'S THEATRE.—Two large audiences witnessed "Stormbreak" at the above house May 7. The audience was the same as usually assemblies at this theatre and it gave the show a hearty reception. The roster of the company was: Edwin Browne, Edward Summers, H. P. Keen, James T. Gleeny, Henry Manly, Logan Paul, Ruth Lyle, H. C. Crosbie, Walter Smith, J. W. Williams, Nellie Pierce, Hattie Berrie, Alice Mason, May 14, "The Athenian Nights" and Ellister's Comedy Co.

The cast in "Ermine" at the Casino was changed May 7 by the substitution of Addie Conrad for Pauline Hall in "Ermine." Fred Solomon for Charles Plunkett at the Chevalier. The contracts with the returning actors had expired. Mr. Wilson is about to visit Europe, but, with Mr. Plunkett, will appear with the company in September.

THE LADY OR THE TIGER?—Sydney Rosenfeld's three act comedy opera, adapted from Frank R. Stockton's sketch of that name, with music by Julius J. Lyons and Adolph Aronson, was presented for the first time on any stage at Wallack's Theatre, May 7, opening the McCallum season at that house. The cast: Pausanias, King of Sparta; Dr. W. H. Hopper; Menander, his prophet; Jeff Driscoll; Theoclydes, his general; Francis Gatliff; the Five Epistles, or Chief Magistrates of Sparta; Alfred Klein, George W. Kyle, Louis Shadrach, C. H. Jones, Lindsey Masterson; the Young Athenian Princes; Grace Seaver, Claire Childs, Emma Miller, Tillie Frank, Florence Wylie, Marie Von Doochuk, Jessie Callaway, Gertrude Jones, Eugenie Johnson, Lou Edgar; Lamachus, a soldier in love with the King's daughter; Eugene Ondine; Irene, the King's daughter; Caterina Marzo; Hilaria, her maid; Madeline Lucette; Paroona, a Persian captive; Maud Wilson; Polyxena, an elderly Athenian maiden; Mathilde Cottrell; musical director, Adolph Aronson. The house was large and fashionable, and all the favorites of the company received a royal welcome by W. H. Hopper's grotesque comedy. Mrs. Cottrell's exuberant humor, Madeline Lucette's sprightly work and the sweet singing of Francis Gatliff, were the most attractive features of the production. The big success anticipated, however, was by no means a success, the music failing far short of the requirements of an libretto failing to interest the audience. Caterina Marzo (daughter of the famous Mark Smith) made her New York debut in comic opera, but with only fair success. Her voice is in poor condition. The new scenario by P. W. Goethner and costumes were very handsome. Col. McCallum has planned for a long run of the opera, but it is doubtful if, in its present shape, it will be a winner.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—"Drifting Apart," a five act domestic drama by James A. Herne, was produced for the first time on any stage at this house May 7, and met with only fair success. We are forced to reserve a review of the piece and a synopsis of its story until our next issue. The cast: Jack Hepburn, skipper of the Dolphin, with a fallin'; James A. Herne; Percy Edward, H. M. Pitt; Siba Cummings, Charles W. Butler; Harry Merton, James Oliver; Alec Saunders; Jessie Beach; Josh Whitbeck; Robert Alexander; Mrs. Miller; Katherine C. Herne; Hester Barton; Victoria Reynolds; Mrs. Seward; Henrietta Bert; Margaret Leopurine, Mrs. F. E. Wild; Little Margaret; Little Dot; Winter; Miss Stanley; Maud C. Jeffries; Miss Estesbrook; Lucille Pearson; and Miss Fairchild; Adelaide Nelson. Mr. Herne has the People's to a fortnight.

THE MYSTERY OF A HANSOM CAB.—The plot and cast, which THE CLIPPER has already given, presented for the first time in this city May 7, at the Academy of Music, where it had a mild failure, re-decided in part by the careful work of E. D. Lyons and Henry Lee as the two detectives; Helen Baucroft as the informer, and William Morris as the young lover. E. A. McDowell's name was on the programme, but he has left the company, and Herne is filling his place.

WATER TOWER.—James A. Herne's "Drifting Apart" will be put on by this company.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Edward Harrigan's Co. in "Old Lavender" will go to tour 7 to a full house.

GRAND THEATRE.—"Aladdin" will hold the boards for the current week. The ballet is led by Rosina Astorga.

AMPHION ACADEMY.—Barry and Fay opened 7. Booth and Barrett come 14.

CRITERION.—"Only a Farmer's Daughter" filled the bill at both performances.

LYKE LEE.—"The Novelty Theatre" N. S. Wood opened the week of 7 to large attendance.

GRAND THEATRE.—"Aladdin" will hold the boards for a week, and Ada Gray in a round of plays follows 14.

WATER TOWER.—"The Mystery of a Hansom Cab" will be put on by this company.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Florence J. Lindley in "Dot" will fill out this week, the last of the season.

COURT STREET.—"Under the Gaslight" comes 7 for a week, and Ada Gray in a round of plays follows 14.

BUNNELL'S MUSEUM.—This week, "The Stranglers of Paris" next week, Nelson's Mammal Specialty Co. and F. C. Tandy Co. closed a good week 3.

ADALBERT.—This house closed for the season 5. Frank and Lillian White and Juleson's electric organ were the closing attractions, and were well received.

DALY'S THEATRE.—The fourth week of Rosina Vokes' engagement opened auspiciously May 7, when she revived "My Milliner's Bill" and "A Double Lesson," appearing in both with success. The support played for the first time in this city. The theme is the tribulations of an impetuous artist, ordered by his own uncle to marry an heiress, who is sent to have her portrait painted. She comes accompanied by another girl, a poor relation. The girls understand the situation and refuse to say "which is which." In the end the artist chooses the heiress, though he believes he is listening to his inclinations at the expense of his prospective fortune. As soon as the uncle appears an explanation is reached, and the curtain falls.

ROCHESTER.—At Jacobs & Proctor's Academy, Stanley Macy's "Kindergarten" Co. opened May 7, for a week. Frank Frayne comes week 14-19. During the past week Frankie Kemble drew large audiences.

CASINO THEATRE.—The Japanese Troupe gave a fine entertainment the past week before light audience. This house will remain dark for the remainder of the season.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Herrmann, assisted by Mine, Herrmann opened this week for three nights.

A PAIR OF KIDS follows for the remainder of the week. Dockstader's Minstrels come 3 and entertain a audience which filled the house.

DURING the Dockstader engagement the past week A. C. Moreland was given a reception by the local Lodge of Elks.

ALMA AIKEN (daughter of Frank E. Aiken), Ida

Ward, George C. Middleton and Arthur Cook will be held at the Fund rooms, on Fifth Avenue, Thursday afternoon on May 10.

TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—Frank Moran's Minstrels opened a two weeks' stay Monday evening, the first part opened with J. J. Dougherty in the middle. A. Johnson and G. D. Melville and J. Harrington and A. Virtue, bones in the first edition, and Frank Dumont in the middle and Billy Birch and Frank Moran on the ends for the second edition. The singing contingency utilized the talents of J. H. Maxwell, J. M. Woods and the Manhattan quartet in taking first part ballads. The ends were well taken care of by the bright lights named above. The second part showed to advantage the well defined efforts of Frank Moran, the Two Virtues Harrington and Johnson, G. Donald McVille and the Manhattan Quartet. "The House of the Specks" gave good opportunities to Billy Birch, J. J. Dougherty and J. C. Harrington, W. H. Maxwell and others.

TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—Frank Moran's Minstrels opened with Henry T. Chapman in "Kit" and "The Octopus" to good business. Frank Frayne in "Mardi" proved his popularity past week by his large audiences.

ALMA AIKEN (daughter of Frank E. Aiken), Ida

Ward, George C. Middleton and Arthur Cook will be held at the Fund rooms, on Fifth Avenue, Thursday afternoon on May 10.

TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—Frank Moran's Minstrels opened with J. J. Dougherty in the middle. A. Johnson and G. D. Melville and J. Harrington and A. Virtue, bones in the first edition, and Frank Dumont in the middle and Billy Birch and Frank Moran on the ends for the second edition. The singing contingency utilized the talents of J. H. Maxwell, J. M. Woods and the Manhattan quartet in taking first part ballads. The ends were well taken care of by the bright lights named above. Westerly.—At Armory Hall, April 27, 28, W. H. Bishop's "Mugg's Landing" did excellent business...Dore Davidson in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," booked at Eliven's Opera House May 8, canceled....James A. Gould, architect of Horowitz's Bernicia Co., returned to his home in this city, May 2, the company having closed the season April 30 in Great Falls, N. H.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston.—Nothing in course of presentation at our theatres just now has anything of the character of novelty attaching to it, save "Mazulum," which had its first presentation in this city May 7, by Irene Kirby's Co., at the Globe Theatre. My wiring of the opening performance in another column, will tell of the effects of the spectacle on our somewhat phlegmatic Hubites. "Mazulum" is booked for a run—if it can fetch there. "Rice & Corsair" Co. drew well week ending 5. I think the old extravaganza is a bit tired, but its first revival performances at the Hollies at the beginning of the current season. Allow me to correct an error which my dispatch contained last week, in speaking of "The Corsair's" opening. I unintentionally gave Ed. Morris credit for duplicating his old success as Yussef, when all the praise belongs rightfully to John G. Sparks, that capital Irish comedian who graduated from Mr. Harrigan's school.

BOSTON MUSEUM.—Richard Mansfield began a farewell engagement of three weeks 7, opening in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." The regular season of his own company having closed 5, Mr. Mansfield has the support of the Museum stock for the first week of his stay, during which he will do "Prince Karl" and "A Parisian Romance" in addition to "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." The third and final week of the engagement will be utilized with "Monsieur" and the special company which the star proposes to carry to London with him. Therefore, the regular Museum stock will close their 1887-88 world May 19. They ended their regular season with Manager Field 5, when Janauschek's engagement was finished. The latter was only fairly successful, financially. Harry Kellar is a Summer booking.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—Robson and Crane, in "The Henrietta," will finish a famously successful month from every standpoint with the closing performance. They put out orchestra under the stage the opening night, April 16, and they have kept them ever since. E. H. Sothern, in a stay of some length 14, Elsie Leslie is with him and will repeat her exquisite hit in "Editha's Burglar." Assistant Manager Charles J. Rich modestly announces a testimonial benefit 21, and I know of nobody who better deserves one. He is popular, pleasant and painstaking to a fault in caring for the pleasures of his patrons and friends. Head usher Given and the advertising agent, a couple of courteous attachés, will benefit Sunday, 13. Manager A. L. Rich was at the opening performance of Jas. Herne's "Drifting Apart" at the People's Theatre in your city, 7. "Dawn" will be gotten in shape pretty soon, and the name Mr. Sothern quite hers. The Broadway girls will be here to repeat. Mrs. A. Pennoyer and Robert S. Tabor are the latest people announced in the production.

PARK THEATRE.—The first week of "Partners" by A. M. Palmer's Co. closed 5 to a round of large and fashionable audiences. It will be withdrawn after 12, to allow of the staging 14 of "Elaine," which has never been seen in Boston. The final fortnight of the five weeks' season will be devoted to the production of "Jim the Penman."

BOSTON THEATRE.—Good houses applauded Den man Thompson in "The Old Homestead" last week. He will close his fortnight 12. The Bostonians, with soloists who are all big favorites, will commence a fortnight 14. "Fantinetta" will be the initial opera, and Mrs. McGivern will enjoy an additional benefit 14. "Arlene" will be the first. Akerst is billed to open a Summer sea on June 4, in "Anette, the Dancing Girl." D. J. Magnunis is a special engagement.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—There's an elasticity of energy about the management of this house that is comprehensive enough to jump from Italian grand opera to "Peck's Bad Boy" within a week. This is certainly catering to all tastes with bewildering rapidity and diversion. The opera was not a financial success, but it wasn't the fault of Sig. Campagni, his singers, or the management of the Grand. It was a lamentable lack of interest in meritorious musical work on the part of the Hub's haut ton. Some folks are just frank enough to say the ton don't know a good thing at any stage of the game. Austin's Co. began a week 7. Mestayer's "Tobogganing" Co. finished out the last half of the week ending 5 in good shape. Zitkai is due May 14. Rose Coghlan is booked for a week at the Grand in June.

HOARD ATHENAEUM.—Monroe & Rice's "My Aunt Bridget" Co. began a week 7. Frances Bishop had a capital week with "Mugg's Landing" 5. Daniel Sully opens 14. Manager Wm. Harris and Mrs. Harris leave for Liverpool 12. Benefits are the order of the hour at the Howard. Ticket Agent William Gallagher and Advertising Agents Bowman and Keene benefit June 4; Stage Manager Radcliffe benefits 6, and Dan Sutton and William Bowman 9. After that I guess the Howard will be dark for the Summer.

WORST THEATRE.—Daniel A. Kelly and Joan Craven are doing their sensational dramas this week, and there will be prosperity for all hands. GAIETY MUSEUM.—Manager Keith is receiving great newspaper commendation for his persistency and success in extending his amusement venture in this city, as well as his success. Here's a sample from the Times of April 10: "Mr. Keith's success in France has been almost as remarkable as his progress in this city as a furnisher of amusement at very cheap places. He started there as he did here, with a little place called 'The Gaiety' and a few hundred francs. He has now kept his place filled as readily as he does the Biou in this city. The growth of cheap amusements in both cities has been remarkable, and Manager Keith is reaping a harvest at the present time. He will continue to pursue the same policy in a new venture. Proveden, which he has found so profitable heretofore, will give light and pleasant entertainments, clean and clever, with beautiful surroundings and all the conveniences of well regulated, first class theatres, at the very lowest prices. The Gaiety's 'Theatre' is open for traveling combinations between Mr. Keith's house and Mr. Morrison's, and first-class companies may not find Providence a bad place to book out, but Proveden will be likely to benefit many in the proportion." The Gaiety's list: Mollie Wilson, Tom and Eddie, Billie Burton, the Warrens, George Felix, Al Haynes, Durey, and Dick Mayhew, Millie Vale, Ainsley, Eddie, and Julia Lindstrom.

TEXAS.—The season at the Dallas Opera House closed May 2 with Lester & Allen's "Early Birds," who played in good business. Henry Greenwall came to New Orleans to take charge of the Grand Opera House, and from there will proceed to New York to book attractions for the Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas Circuit for 1888-9.

GRAND CENTRAL THEATRE.—Burke and Mills, and Andley and Forrest were to appear at this house April 3, but they did not show up.

Houston.—Pilot's is now closed after a season of prosperous business, and Henry Greenwall, its manager, left for New Orleans April 3. From there he goes to New York, and he will be back to book the new season of 1888-9. Gilmore's Biou will give two concerts at the Fair Grounds May 14....The Choral Society of this city have in rehearsal an operetta entitled "Princess Snowflake," which they intend to open at the Biou in the fall. They have engaged James Carpenter, leader of orchestra and director of vocal music; Wm. Graham, bandmaster; Mark C. Schultz, master of properties; Frank Cushman, Harry Budworth, Pete Mack, Howe and Doyle, The World's Trio queen, Stowe and Bandalia, the Imperial (late Ourai) Japanese Troupe, of ten performers, R. E. Rogers, Wm. Pilling, Chas. McCann, Julius F. Ruhe, Frank Klotz, H. C. Pfaff, Frank Sweeney, Raymond Moore, Bart. W. Fenton, Henry Wilkin, Eddie Mullenix, Quinn Bowles, Harry Houser and the Metropolitan (vocal) quintet, and, probably, Carl Rankin. Mr. Cleveland adds significantly that "these people are all known," and that "amateurs are barred." A glance at the list will confirm that the new season promises to be a lively one for variety.

RING.

J. D., Easthampton.—R. K. Fox was never John L. Sullivan's backer or manager in any fight in which he fought.

E. T. P., Easthampton.—He was never his backer, although he offered to back him.

DALLAS.—John S. Sullivan was engaged in the saloon business at 100 Bowery and New York. In this city he was the partner of Billy Bowery.

STAKEHOLDERS, Milwaukee.—I. He has that right, provided the articles of agreement do not expressly state otherwise.

2. Owing to McMartin's umpire having to leave the ring, the referee, the manager, and the representative of his opponent cannot stand. The men should meet again, or else the stakeholder should return to each principal his share of the stakes.

3. K. N., Pittsburgh.—Jack Dempsey defeated Jack Fogarty on Feb. 3, 1886, and beat George La Blanche on March 14 of the same year.

S. M., Providence.—Joe Goss never defeated Jim Mace. The fourth fight was winning twice, and the second ended in a draw. The third battle was fought in a sixteen-foot ring.

BASEBALL, CRICKET, ETC.

C. H. M., St. Louis.—The Star Club would be an appropriate name. No answer to all.

P. M. C., Pawtucket.—We cannot decide bets concerning the amount of salary said to be paid any player.

D. A. C., Dallas.—A loss on account of Austin failing to beat Galveston.

J. S. S., N. Y. C.—Five balls gave a batsman his base in 1887. 2. Six balls were required in 1888. 3. The rule requiring seven balls to give a man his base was in vogue 1881, '82, '83, '84 and '85.

B. T., Pottstown.—Address Manager Harry Wright of the Philadelphia Club. We keep no record of exhibition games.

E. L. W., Topeka.—The rules say that he shall not raise his right foot unless in the act of delivering the ball, and that he shall not stand on his left foot in such delivery. If he is a left-handed pitcher he is forbidden from lifting his left foot unless in delivering the ball.

J. M., Lyons.—R. wins. The Buffaloes did not beat Troy.

W. A. C., Ada.—You will have to consult a professional pitcher. I have not the space necessary to give the required explanation.

[Special Correspondence for The New York Clipper.]

NEW YORK, May 3.—On May 3 the New Yorks gave their last exhibition of ball playing in this city until May 25. On the night of May 3 they packed their portmanteaus and started on their first Western trip. They headed for Indianapolis, where the first game was played, and it resulted in a way certainly pleasing to all New Yorkers. The club is in far better shape this year, in playing strength, than it has ever been, and it will make a better fight for the pennant than it has done at any time since the season of 1885. During that year it virtually had but one really strong team (Chicago) to oppose it. This year, however, there are four or five nines in the race for the pennant. The New Yorks are not invincible, and, therefore, must take their dose of defeats along with their victories. The season is not far enough advanced to cause any apprehension as to the place the New Yorks will hold among the other clubs and players. At this early day it is purely guess work as to how the club will finish. However, it is safe to say that the New Yorks will play "great ball" this season, and will make a very satisfactory ending.

In their series with the Bostons in this city the New Yorks divided honors with them, each winning two games. Certainly that was doing very well. The strength of the New York team was not fully tested in those games, but enough was shown to convince the public that the team can and will put up a very strong game when it gets into proper working order. Welch and O'Rourke were pitted against Clarkson and Kelly, the great $20,000 battery of the Boston Club. In a close inspection of the game it will be seen that the work of the New York pair—Welch and O'Rourke—was not better than that of their rivals. It was through no fault of Welch that the game was lost. It was more through indiscretions base running, and several costly errors on the part of Ewing than anything else. Welch was in excellent trim, and if he can pitch the same game throughout the season then he has undoubtedly struck his old form, and should prove a terror to the batsmen this season.

In the second game between the New Yorks and Bostons, May 1, Tim Keefe made his first appearance of the season in the box for the New Yorks, and his presence was greeted with a victory for the home team, their first over Boston. Keefe was hardly in playing trim, but the day was not far fromable for good pitching, and as the New Yorks did the better batting they gained a victory. In that game little Madden, the left handed pitcher of the Boston Club, was severely injured by a pitched ball, and had to retire from the game. The Bostons will be without his services for a week or so, which is very discouraging to the club, as he is one of its most promising pitchers. No one more regrets the accident than Keefe, but no blame can be attached to him, as it is one of the unfortunate things that result from the curving of the ball. Young Titcomb and Murphy were put in against the Bostons in the third game. This time Clarkson pitched and Kelly caught for the Bostons. In this game the New Yorks again proved victorious. Titcomb pitched with telling effect, and proved himself a good one. He looks as though he will hold his own in the National League.

The final game was played on May 3, and it resulted in a victory for the Bostons, who outplayed the New Yorks, and were more fortunate in bombing their hits. Keefe and Clarkson were the opposing pitchers. Both did good work, but Keefe fully showed that he needed more practice. It was a mistake to put him in twice against the Bostons. Welch should have been the man for that game. However, it is over, and there is no use in bemoaning what cannot now be changed. Manager Muriel is delighted with the performance made by Welch, Keefe, and Titcomb, and it is safe to predict that they will do the bulk of the work in the box this season, barring accidents, of course.

The new men Foster has thus far proved himself a very brilliant fielder. He is a very fast runner and a sure catch, but he seems to be quite weak at the bat. Slattery, although not so brilliant a fielder, is a better batsman than Foster, and, as hitting counts, he should not be overlooked in the make up of the team. By the way, it would be a good idea to keep Ewing and O'Rourke in the team all the time. Let them alternate behind the bat and in left field. When it becomes necessary to put in one of the other catchers, then let Ewing play left field and O'Rourke center, or other time the other field could be covered by Slattery, Goss or Poston. The lot either Cleveland or Hatfield be played regularly in third base. Give both a fair trial, and make the selection from the one who does the best work. A little judicious managing may bring good results.

The Brooklyn public now has less cause for regret at the showing its team is making than it had one week ago. The men are all in excellent trim, and are playing as though they meant to win every game. This, of course, they will not do, but his just as well to make the attempt. The first blow struck generally makes its impression. Therefore, it is just as well to get all the games possible to their credit, for they may be the theme in a big run. At least, the men continue to have confidence in themselves and play together as a team, they are bound to show good results. President Byrne has been severely criticised for releasing young Cunningham, the pitcher, to the Baltimoreans. But as Mr. Byrne had five first class men besides Cunningham to select from he had nothing else to do. There were six pitchers more than any one club needed, and what else could he do? He might have released any one of the men he now has, and met with just the experience that the team did at Baltimore. President Byrne is very much delighted with the showing made by Hughes. He is of the opinion that Hughes will be a great success this season.

Dave Foutz has lost none of his cunning thus far played they have shown up wonderfully well. The catchers are also doing excellent work behind the bat, and this particular feature will make its impression on the standing of the club this season. Then the men are now batting better than they did earlier in the season. Take it as a whole, the team is a wonderfully strong one, and will make a strong fight for the pennant this year.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

Much anxiety was felt in Brooklyn prior to the games between the Brooklyns and Baltimore just finished. Many persons thought the Baltimoreans would prove a stumbling block to Brooklyns this season. Well, they met and the result was satisfactory to the Brooklyns. Caruthers and Bushong were pitted against Kilroy and Fulmer. The Brooklyns found little trouble in batting Kilroy's curves all over the field; and when Kilroy, on account of an injury, gave way to Smith, the Brooklyns batted his delivery as freely as they did Kilroy's. Caruthers, on the other hand, pitched a very sharp game and held the visitors down to three hits. Burns alone being able to size him up to any extent, he getting two of the three hits. In the next game Shaw and Fulmer were put in for Baltimore and Hughes and Holbert for the Brooklyns. By the way, when the Baltimoreans left the box for Brooklyn, Mr. Peter Barnard decided to leave Shaw at home, but after he arrived in Brooklyn and saw the state his nine was in he immediately sent for Shaw. The youngster did exceedingly well against the Brooklyns May 3, and, although his delivery was batted quite hard, he had been properly supported a different result might have been shown. Hughes proved himself a good one, and held the Baltimoreans down to six hits, from which only one earned run was made. Hughes misunderstood some of Holbert's signs and the consequence was that he was somewhat wild in his delivery at the beginning. However, he soon settled down to his work and pitched in fine form.

The third game was the all important one. It was a well known fact that Cunningham, the pitcher of the Brooklyns, was the man who had puzzeled the Brooklyns batsmen on two occasions in Baltimore, would pitch, and the result was anxiously looked for. Cunningham and O'Brien, the latter also played in Brooklyn last year, were put in to pitch and catch for Baltimore, while Terry and Peoples filled those points for the Brooklyns. Cunningham did well, but the Brooklyns were on their mettle, and they gave the young man quite a lacing. However, they earned only three of the eight runs scored. Terry, was in excellent form, and had been properly supported not a run would have been scored by the Baltimoreans. Up to the eighth, however, a number of mistakes were made. At that inning, however, after two men were out, Smith and McClellan, made several costly errors, which were the means of giving Baltimore five runs. The final game was played May 6, at Ridgewood Park, and resulted in a victory for the Baltimoreans. Smith and Caruthers were the opposing pitchers. This makes the third victory the Baltimoreans gained over the Brooklyns with Caruthers in the box. Either Foutz or Hughes would have been a better man to man in against the Baltimoreans.

There is one thing the American Association ought to do, and that is abolish boisterous coaching. The association is now charging 50 cents admission to see its games, the same as the League. Therefore, it is only fair that the association management in the League does. The game can be played, and the public will appreciate it a great deal better if there is less noise during its progress. Who cares to sit for two hours and listen to the shouting of two men across the diamond as though their very lives depended upon which could make the most noise. It is not good ball playing and should be stopped. The more quiet and gentlemanly the players are the more popular the game will be come.

Bob Clark, one of the Brooklyn Club's catchers, was recently the recipient of a box which was sent from Cincinnati. Bob was all smiles, and could hardly wait until the cover was removed. The box contained a black, flat crowned, stiff brimmed hat, which might have come out of the air. Two bricks accompanied the hat, and Bob paid 65 cents for his prize.

Darby O'Brien may not be superstitious, but he carries a little leather pouch with a nickel in it, which he goes. He says they always win when the nickel is there. Darby is never at rest when the "mascot" is out of his sight.

Major Gleason, of Long Island City, favors Sunday ball playing, and will not sanction any interference on the part of the police toward stopping the games played within his jurisdiction. His Honor and President Henry C. Johnson of the Board of Police Commissioners of Long Island City, had a difference of opinion about Sunday ball playing. Gleason is in favor of it, while Johnson is not.

The reason for the difference of opinion is that Mr. Johnson tendered his resignation, which was promptly accepted by the Mayor.

Ferguson has at last adopted Gaffney's system of umpiring, and has met with great success. He was heartily applauded when he first tried it. Every body seems satisfied with the plan, as the umpire can see the plays at second base better than if he was behind the bat. At first the umpire takes his place behind the catcher. If the batsman makes a hit, or reaches first base by any other means, the umpire goes behind the pitcher, gives his decisions on balls and strikes, and then has an excellent opportunity of deciding on base plays. The system was new to Ferguson, but it will come easier to him after a few games. It is a better plan than the old way of standing behind the bat all the time.

That Jersey City has a crack team was fully demonstrated May 4. That being an off day a game was arranged with Manager Wright's Philadelphia team, and greatly to the surprise of the public and the chagrin of the visitors the Jersey Citys won by a score of 10 to 2. Little Daily, Manager Powers' midget pitcher, occupied the box for the home team. The visitors only made three scattered hits and did not earn a run. The Jerseymen, on the other hand, batted Sanders' delivery for two earned runs. Manager Powers is an amiable young man, who will be a credit to the team. The summer is here, and he has made good reputations for themselves. Lang, at short, and Fries, in left field, are also good men, and play their positions in a very creditable manner.

Manager Sam Crane of the Scranton Club badly sprained his ankle recently while his team was playing in Jersey City, and has been unable to play ever since.

CINCINNATI'S BUDGET.

The Fifty Cent Tariff in the American Association—The Reds' New Uniforms.

[Special Correspondence for The New York Clipper.]

CINCINNATI, May 6.—The returns are all in, and the discovery has been made that seven of the clubs in the American Association have laid down a law unto themselves, winking hard at the fifty cent tariff and established what they call a "boys' rate." Cleveland is the last club to assert its independence by announcing that lads "under twelve" would be admitted for a quarter. That is the fee asked for youngsters at St. Louis and Kansas City. In Louisville they are selling what they call "youths' tickets" for thirty-five cents, and to-day President A. S. Stern, who at first was disposed to protest against this manifest violation of the law of the Association, declared to THE CLIPPER correspondent: "I am going to put a boys' ticket on sale myself, and will let the little people in for thirty-five cents." A war on seven clubs by one would not be a very probable struggle, and as the permanent tariff is not much above the cost of admission, there is not much reason in pressing an objection. The baseball managers are sensible in altering to the rising generation. The boys of to-day are the army of baseball enthusiasts of the future. Take the game away from them by putting up a tariff if they cannot scale and their education is neglected. He will lose interest in the game and drift away from it.

It is too early to speak of the effect of the increased tariff upon baseball attendance in Cincinnati. On May 1, when the man in a Winter overcoat shivered with the cold, there were over 2,300 people in the stands to see the Reds cruelly vanquish the Louisvilles. Between chills they shouted themselves hoarse over the fearful manner in which the delivery of Thomas Ramsey, once called Colonel, was solved. Fifteen singles, a double, two triples and two home runs were the sum total of the Cincinnati abilities in the slugging line that afternoon. The fate of the young team in its many contests of former days had struck out batsmen twelve to fifteen times in a single game, was bad indeed. But the shivering Cincinnati host didn't think so. They shouted from the time Reilly made the first hit of the game, in the second, until Tebeau gave the ball the twentieth and farewell safe rap in the ninth. Two sad eyed youths of the Falls City witnessed the overthrow of their petted Blue Ribbon Innocents—Harry Means of The Commercial, and R. S. Colston of The Courier-Journal. This time last year all Louisville was wild with joy over three straight victories won from the Reds. Now the Reds' admirers are rejoicing, for the boot is on the other. Cincinnati had the greatest victory of the year, and the Louisville team was the one that state his nine was in he immediately sent for Shaw. The youngster did exceedingly well against the Brooklyns May 3, and, although his delivery was batted quite hard, he had been properly supported a different result might have been shown. Col. Botto referred to the recent Detroit-Cincinnati series with this comment: "I know there are many people who would back Cincinnati to win a series of games from any National League team in the country."

Right here, it might be recorded that the Cincinnati Club's challenge to Detroit to play a series of five games in the Fall for $1,000 remains unanswered. The $100 forfeit has not been covered, and not a word has been heard from the "World's Champions." Two of the American Association's "Big Four" have been seen here this season—Umpires Doescher and McQuade. Cincinnati, of course, is familiar with McQuade, but Doescher is a stranger. He was warmly welcomed, and one decision he made in the interest of healthy ball playing, and to the disqualification of "dead ball," once put him in the box. The umpire in Louisville is a good one, and the two defeatists in Cleveland last week, the Reds' admirers are rejoicing, for the boot is on the other. Cincinnati had the greatest victory of the year, and the Louisville team was the one that state his nine was in he immediately sent for Shaw. The youngster did exceedingly well against the Brooklyns May 3, and, although his delivery was batted quite hard, he had been properly supported a different result might have been shown. Hughes proved himself a good one, and held the Baltimoreans down to six hits, from which only one earned run was made. Hughes misunderstood some of Holbert's signs and the consequence was that he was somewhat wild in his delivery at the beginning. However, he soon settled down to his work and pitched in fine form.

To Correspondents.

WM. STEINITZ.—Your very candid and pertinent observations are welcome and interesting. —
Bro. SCHUBERT.—Your article on "Chess Letters"—anyway we are bound to believe it, seeing we've been told so in cold type. Many thanks for interesting information.

J. C. BIRD.—By all means send the games you mention; accept thanks for the one enclosed, with flattering comments.

BOB REDWING.—Very agreeable; you have relieved us from a considerable embarrassment. Our "P" shake! Guess we are neither of us candidates for any sensational conversion.

J. A. COX.—Toronto.—Respectfully declined, with thanks for the attention.

"METELLOV."—Do we remember you? Well, we should smile to the extent of laughing right out. Now, as far as you're concerned, you shouldn't contribute anything new to the never varying (only to grow better) CLIPPER, in memory of those old times—and who shall say they were not good times?—when we were all as callow as cayenne. Do you remember us?

J. A. COX.—The Black P mentioned is on the diagram all right, thanks.

OTTO BEYLICH.—It is a gratifying occurrence that one of our oldest contributors and our newest one come from the same angle of contribution.

HER. FR. MOUCCA, Prague.—Your last splendid package of Bohemian chess safely to hand, thirty slips; but, unfortunately, Zlate Listy is not quite complete. Can you supply in your next package? Roy. V. 18, 7, Ultra Cis. 20, a doc. V. 18, Ultra Cis. 20. Please secure us an autograph of your confesse, Josa Pospisil.

ERKATA.—We never pay much attention to trifling typographical errors which usually correct themselves on sight; but the following, in the "Model of English," is not. In the last interrogative, the simile requires "ton" to be tun, in both cases, since gas is measured, not weighed; in the sixth, instead of diamond "facts," we intended to write facets; in the ninth, "ever" is left out, which should be evident; and in the citation from Cicero, "quod" should be quia; in both cases, some of these slips are probably the writer's own fault.

"THE MODEL CHESS EDITOR."—It is no figure of speech to say that we are surprised at the warmth of commendation with which our recent article under the above caption has been received, and at the candor, appreciation, tone and freedom from offensive personalities of the criticism. We are gratified to find that in this last class, an article by the King of living chess is the most germane to the point raised, and we give it as the most satisfactory exposition of an opposite view yet received, or likely to be received. Certainly it is possible, but we are not so probable, that the American chess press or public will confound the class with honorable gentlemen temporarily reduced to the position Bro. Steinitz pictures. With such we have, as always, a warm sympathy. We are sorry to find that Mr. F. F. Frazee and correspondent of many years, the renowned Herr J. J. Loewenthal, was one of this class. We need not go into details. All Americans know them. Our object is to separate the honorable and praiseworthy from the dishonest and contemptuous. With the aim of course, clear headed and right hearted correspondents we shall succeed. A personal explanation ante actum. An occasional word or phrase appears in this MR. which Miron and Phanom are sure can only guess at. At all we give the author a hearty hearty distinction, and the author will kindly point it out. On the point above alluded to Mr. Steinitz writes us: "To you otherwise noble and model article, I take this opportunity of making friendly remarks. I am sorry to see that you have not yet made your allusion to the player for revenue, albeit you have a handsome encouragement of professional masters, you are only making a difference of degree in your condemnation which is injurious to the progress of the game. The public, I am sure, will be pleased to see that the hostile press is sure to foster the confusion, according to the example of Staunton, whom you quote. [It wasn't Mr. Staunton but Mr. Duff we quoted] that most of the greatest masters of the game would make their start as 'players for revenue' for the simple reason that they were poor and had no other means of living; generally in a strange country where all other masters are equally competitors. I hope to get the author to maintain that even a much inferior mediocre, who makes no progress, has a perfect right to increase his income, or to make his sole living by playing chess. It is a poor living anyhow, in which the effort of a steady, honest and patriotic man is really on the side of the losses, who gets much more benefit at a cheap cost than he confers in coin. Why grudge some poor men a little remuneration for mental work, when hundreds of thousands of occupations in the world with the most strenuous efforts are rewarded with fortune for less expenditure of intellect, often coupled with downright deceptions and knavery? Such doctrines are only fostering meanness among learners of the game, who can well afford to pay trifles for the pleasure of the game, but not entirely prefer to worship the golden calf by keeping the shilling in their pockets when the press, the guide of public opinion, sanctifies their liberality."

"Chess players, whether amateurs or not, give the world a great deal more than they get. Who has not paid novel or play writers, and there is really no reason why wealthy amateurs should not be taught to pay for their amusement, even to poor 'shilling sharps.' Most sincerely yours,

W. STEINITZ."

COLUMBIA C. C. VS. PHILADELPHIA JUNIORS.—Adent this recent and very pleasant passage at arms Calman, Bro. Schubert writes us: "We could only get a poor team to go, and in consequence lost the game, however, only by one point. In Philadelphia the Juniors were two men above the strongest men they sent to New York, and we had to put the man we had ranked third in New York first there. They were actually four men stronger in Philadelphia than we were. The most remarkable fact was that two of our team (both third class) won. Score:

NEW YORK. PHILADELPHIA.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER

THE FRANK QUEEN PUBLISHING CO. Limited, PUBLISHERS.

SATURDAY, MAY 12, 1888.

The actual weekly sales of THE NEW YORK CLIPPER are now and always have been far in excess of the combined actual sales of all the other ten cent dramatic and sporting papers in America.

Moreover, THE NEW YORK CLIPPER is the oldest theatrical and sporting journal published in this country.

HANLAN'S DEFEAT.

Another contest for the sculling championship of the world has taken place in Australian waters, and, very much to the surprise and disappointment of the friends of Edward Hanlan, the result of the struggle was his unexpected defeat at the hands of Peter Kemp, to whom William Beach forfeited the title of champion after administering a third defeat to the plucky and persevering Canadian oarsman. From the meagre particulars contained in the cablegram published in another column, the race appears to have been close for a considerable distance, showing that the reports of Kemp's great turn of speed for two miles were not unfounded, but the latter half of the race was uninteresting, while the result was unsatisfactory, owing to the faults stated to have taken place. If the fouling was chargeable to Hanlan, it is not probable that he persevered after the second violation of racing law, so that the contest cannot be regarded as a true test of the relative merits of the scullers. Judging from the previous performances of Kemp, few among those who take cognizance of rowing matters considered that he had an even chance with Hanlan. Even among his own countrymen he found few supporters, and it is pretty certain that Hanlan went to the starting point a strong favorite. It must be remembered, however, that Beach has all along declared his faith in the ability of Peter to win the event, and he ought certainly to be well qualified to judge between them. If he was really able to outrun the Canadian, it proves that he is a greatly improved sculler, but until full details of the race are received, and we know the causes that led to the fouling, and who was really to blame therefor, no intelligent opinion can be formed concerning the matter. Should Hanlan still have reason to consider himself the better man, he will doubtless seek another opportunity to demonstrate the fact, for he will be loath to leave the land of the bush without taking with him the title which he first lost there, and which he has repeatedly tried in vain to regain. It, on the contrary, his experience last Saturday satisfied him that the present champion is a faster sculler than himself, it is not likely that he will delay his departure for home long after the decision of his match with Trickett next month. It will then be in order for the American champion, John Teemer, to make the journey to Australia for the purpose of having a try for the title he covets, and which it does not appear likely that he can secure without undertaking such a trip. The Pennsylvanian has announced his intention to challenge the winner of the late race, and it is understood that Fred H. Hagon of Sydney, N. S. W., has promised to back him against any oarsman in that country for any desired amount of money.

AN AQUATIC CARNIVAL.

An interesting feature of the Centennial Exhibition to be held at Melbourne, Australia, early in the month of November next, will be an international regatta carnival, which is to take place at Port Phillip, the landlocked harbor at which seaport is admirably adapted for the purpose, affording as it does accommodation for sea-going vessels of deep draft over an area of four hundred square miles. A programme embracing twenty-eight races has been arranged, the principal event being a challenge race open to all centre-plate and keel yachts of twenty tons upward, for which the first prize is $2,500 and a gold anchor of the value of one hundred guineas, the second boat home receiving $500, and the third being so-laced with $250. Should the number of entries warrant it, it is probable that the prize money will be increased to $5,000. The first prize in the other sailing events ranges from $150 to $500, while for the races in galleys, whale boats, double sculls and dingys, the highest prize is $100. So far as possible the sailing races will be under the rules and regulations of the British Yacht Association. It is the desire of the committee to make the regatta worthy of the occasion, and the competition of yachtsmen representing all countries is earnestly hoped. J. C. Snodgrass, secretary, 29 Queen Street, Melbourne, will furnish all information desired.

WILLIAM O'CONNOR, the Canadian oarsman who recently easily defeated the California sculler, Peterson, has expressed a desire to test the powers of "the coming man" of England, Charles Carr of the Tyneside, the stakes to be $2,000 a side, and the race to take place on either Toronto Bay or the River Tyne, give or take $300 for expenses. As Wallace Ross has stated that it is not his intention to return to England for the purpose of defending the title won by him from George Bubear, it is likely that Carr will become possessed of the premier honors of the "tight little isle" by default of the Newbrunswicker. In that event he will doubtless prefer that any match entered into by him should be for the regulation championship stake, $1,000 a side. O'Connor is so highly thought of as a sculler that he will have no difficulty in securing all the financial backing he wants for a race on either side of the ocean.

THE United States Government has decided to establish a pigeon message service in connection with the signal service at Key West, Fla., and General Greely, who has charge of the matter, has given an order for a supply of "homers" and the requisite paraphernalia for an extensive loft. The main object of this movement is to bring into communication with Key West the Bahamas and other adjacent islands, and thence by cable with the mainland, and should the experiment prove successful, of which there does not seem to be any reasonable doubt, the result will justify the means and furnish another instance of the usefulness of the carrier pigeon. The sudden and severe storms peculiar to the latitude are, however, liable to cause the loss of many birds, and herein lies the only apparent drawback to the success of the experiment.

Talking About Circulation.

From the San Francisco Music and Drama.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER's circulation makes it a valuable advertising medium—the greatest, by far of any organ of its kind on this continent. It equals that of all the other theatrical sheets in New York combined.

From the Boston Advertiser.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, the great theatrical and sporting journal, has entered its thirty-second year. The CLIPPER is a great paper, and is recognized as such even by those who are authority upon the topics above mentioned. The sporting men here await in weekly appearance with the greatest interest, while it is the most popular theatrical paper that reaches Bangor.

Our correspondent writes: "I have visited the news stands and learn that the sale of THE CLIPPER is more than double that of any dramatic or sporting paper that comes to the Queen City, and we have them all."

THE TURE.

Racing at Lexington.

The Kentucky Racing Association opened their Spring meeting at Lexington on Monday afternoon, May 7. There was not large attendance, although the weather was not favorable, but the light rain that fell during the races made the track better than it was when the bell rang for the first event. Fast time was made in two of the races—Potter at a mile and a quarter—Perrin at a mile and a half—Hodges at a mile and a half—Hodges coming close to the record. Result: Purse $150 for all ages $50 to second, selling allowances six furlongs—Leila May, 90, Covington, the favorite, first in 1:15; Finality, 107, Taral, second by four lengths; Delta, 79, Freeman, third a head behind..... The Distillers' Stakes, $50 each $100 added $150 to second and $50 to third, for all ages, penalties and allowances, a mile and a quarter—Hodges, 102, Stable's Potent, 4-113, Taral, first in 1:28; Benedict, 94, Finnegan, the favorite, second by a length and a half—Hodges, 102, Barnes, second by a length behind..... Purse $500, of which $70 to second and $30 to third for three year olds and upward, selling and maiden allowances, seven furlongs—Laure, 100, Covington, first in 1:20; Kirklin, 112, Barnes, second, by two lengths; Hopedale, 107, Cochran, third, a length away.....
